Johann Sebastian Bach.

The sacred vocal works in modern Urtext editions

A major publishing project reaches its conclusion in 2017: with the Bach vocal project, we are publishing Johann Sebastian Bach's complete sacred vocal music in modern Urtext editions geared towards historically-informed performance practice for the 500th anniversary of the Reformation. We are convinced that the needs of performing musicians are best met by a scholarly authoritative music text, which neither patronizes the interpreters nor leaves them perplexed by decisions they need to make.

Our aim in the process is to reflect Bach's compositional intentions as closely as possible with our music editions. Carus has enjoyed a close and long-standing collaboration with leading Bach experts such as Christine Blanken, Pieter Dirksen, Wolfram Enßlin, Andreas Glöckner, Klaus Hofmann, Ulrich Leisinger, Masaaki Suzuki, Uwe Wolf und Peter Wollny.

For the conclusion of this publishing project, we have re-examined all the cantatas which are already published in older editions. Often, it has been possible to incorporate new discoveries from intensive Bach research, which, for example, provide information about authenticity or the history of the version from Bach's copyists.

Whereas in the past we thought we were doing justice to Bach by combining "the best" of different versions, we now regard these separate versions as fully valid forms of the work which can stand side-by-side; sometimes two of these are published as editions which are complete in themselves. This is the case, for example, with the St. John Passion BWV 245 of which we publish both the traditional 'mixed' version as well as all complete surviving versions. Also, nine cantatas – such as the famous "Ein feste Burg" BWV 80/80b – are available in several versions.

Wherever the source material allowed a reconstruction to be made, and the works were also relevant for practical performance, Bach's fragmentary surviving vocal works have been included in the Bach vocal publishing project, and some have been published for the first time in performable versions.

Individual versions have been regarded within the publishing project as fully valid forms of the work which can stand side-by-side. Many editions already contain different authentic versions of individual movements in the Appendix. In the case of more fundamental differences, separate editions have been published. This is the case for cantatas BWV 50, BWV 80/80b, BWV 82, BWV 147/147a, BWV 186/186a, BWV 197/197a, the Sanctus BWV 232^{III}, and St. John Passion BWV 245.
